FRIDAY

I keep thinking of the late John O'Donohue's counsel that as much as we like to plan and project and imagine the future rolling out on planes of predictability and progress, life is marked by thresholds. We are thrust — sometimes by choice, but more often not — from a reality we believed we understood to a new planet we must learn to breathe in and traverse. The point with thresholds, John said, is how we cross them. The challenge — the question to live — is this: How to cross them worthily. Krista Tippet

I plan to develop my “additions” to my RETIREMENT elements without going back to read what I originally wrote back in 2021. My new reality of being a caregiver for Marsha will certainly affect the flavor of each element, but I suspect all elements can still be accounted for in a satisfying manner.

I think the best thing I ever did with my life was stand up and say I've got Alzheimer's. Terry Pratchett

I began using elements from a Tai Chi practice that I had abandoned over the past 10 years. I slowly raised my arms up in a gentle motion and said, "You are standing up." Then I brought my arms closer to my body and said, "You are coming with me." Finally, I slowly lowered my arms down by my side ready to begin again. I did this about 20 times. Did it work? No. Was there a silver lining? Yes, I exercised and practiced my balance and breathing. I meant what I said and I said what I meant. Dr. Seuss Every man's memory is his private literature. Aldous Huxley

When I speak at my local church, which I try to do 35 to 40 times a year, I try in every lesson to take the Old Testament text or New Testament text and apply them to what is happening to me or how that applies to the audience that I'm teaching in a modern, fast-changing, technological world. VOLUNTARY SIMPLICITY

Meditation Card

Voluntary simplicity means going fewer places in one day rather than more, seeing less so I can see more, doing less so I can do more, acquiring less so I can have more.

Jon Kabat-Zinn

When I think of "Simplicity" I think of ...

Our life is frittered away by detail. Simplify, simplify. Thoreau

Possessions, outward success, publicity, luxury – to me these have always been contemptible. I believe that a simple and unassuming manner of life is best for everyone, best for both the body and the mind. Einstein

Let us not look back in anger, nor forward in fear, but around in awareness. James Thurber

We Are More Alike Than We Are Different

Earlier this year, late into the evening, I would encourage Marsha to come into the bedroom and go to sleep for the night. I was frustrated that she didn't see the advantages of a good night's sleep in bed. Equally, Marsha was asking me to go out into the living room and stay up as she rested on the couch. I sensed her frustration when I didn't comply and saw things from her point of view.

You get to a certain point in your life where you get closer to the end of your life than the beginning, and it colors your life, in a way.

Emmylou Harris

Our lives begin to end the day we become silent about the things that matter.

HARMONY

Meditation Card

Happiness is when what you think, what you say, and what you do are in harmony. Mahatma Gandhi

I trust if your life is right, the right things will happen at the right time. If the chords are in harmony inside, I think other things will happen in the same way. That sounded highfalutin' to me once, but I believe it now. Gene Wilder

Maybe I just never learned my harmony part, because what everybody says sounds odd to them sounds perfectly natural to me. Elvis Costello
